New Background Information available

In the recent months, a number of new court decisions in Germany consolidated the right to clean air. Not only Germany has made progress regarding the right to clean air. But all over Europe, a lot has developed. That is why the LIFE Project Legal Actions - Right to Clean Air updated its English background information with a special focus on the European situation and added new examples of legal actions around Europe.

If you are interested in the different situations and cases in the Netherlands, Austria, Belgium, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Slovakia, Spain, Sweden and UK, you can find the publication here.

Additionally, we translated the publication to reach more multipliers in other European countries. With a special regard to the situation in Hungary, Poland, Spain, France and Italy, you can now find information in the respective language also on our website (<https://www.right-to-clean-air.eu/en/library/>).

There is also an updates publication providing detailed information on each and every DUH clean air lawsuit in Germany. The German "Hintergrundpapier" is available here.

To keep our website and publications updated we are happy for your input about current legal cases or infringement proceedings and your activities on air quality in your member state. Please share your input.

You can't stop breathing – short film on air pollution

Air pollution is not the problem of some isolated hotspots or particular group of persons. Recent data shows that we face a problem that covers entire cities, including smaller ones and suburbs. We produced a short clip to raise the awareness of the fact, that everyone is affected. If you haven't seen it already, have a look here:
