

Project-Newsletter #01 / 10.07.2017

Project start and website

Together with our Czech partner Frank Bold Society (FBS), Deutsche Umwelthilfe (DUH) pushes better implementation of air quality measures for and with regard to different sectors. We support legislation processes on European and national level aiming at a significant reduction of air pollution in Europe. Therefore we started the project Right to Clean Air (LIFE15 GIE/DE/795 LEGAL ACTIONS), co-funded by the EU-Life program.

Today, we are very happy to send you our initial newsletter and present our new project website <http://www.right-to-clean-air.eu/>

The website provides you with specific information about the litigation on air quality. You find current proceedings against member states, completed or ongoing legal cases in connection with violations to the Air Quality Directive and NEC Directive, and latest news on air pollution control measures.

We are open for your input about current legal cases or infraction proceedings and your activities on air quality in your member state. Please share your input.

If you wish to be updated regularly, please subscribe to our newsletter that will be published twice a year. We will inform you about publications, events and other activities of the project, results (e.g. court decisions) and best-practice measures for reaching compliance with air quality limits.
